

Historic, Archive Document

Do not assume content reflects current scientific knowledge, policies, or practices.

TULIPS

AMERICAN - GROWN and IMPORTED

Tulips make gay splashes of color in the spring garden. They combine effectively with perennials, or they can be planted in masses in the foreground of your shrub border. You will be assured of a brilliant display of color in your spring garden if you plant Tulips this fall.

Tulips can be planted any time during the fall. Set the bulbs 5 to 6 inches deep in rich well-drained soil. If your soil is not in a fertile condition, it will be advisable to add some good fertilizer or old cow-manure. After the flowers have bloomed in the spring and the foliage has died down, dig up the bulbs and dry them thoroughly before storing them in a cool, dry place for the summer months.

We wish to bring to your special attention that next to our home-grown bulbs we are also handling the finest Holland-grown bulbs obtainable this year.

Pride of Haarlem	Red.	Zwanenburg	White.
William Pitt	Red.	Albino	White.
City of Haarlem	Red.	Inglescombe Yellow	Yellow.
Clara Butt	Salmon-pink.	Mrs. Moon	Yellow.
Princess Elizabeth	Pink.	Dillenburg	Bright salmon-orange.
Bleu Aimable	Purple.	Fantasy	Pink Parrot Tulip.
Paul Baudry	Purple.
Giant	Purple.

For prices, see enclosed list

TERRA CEIA BULB FARM

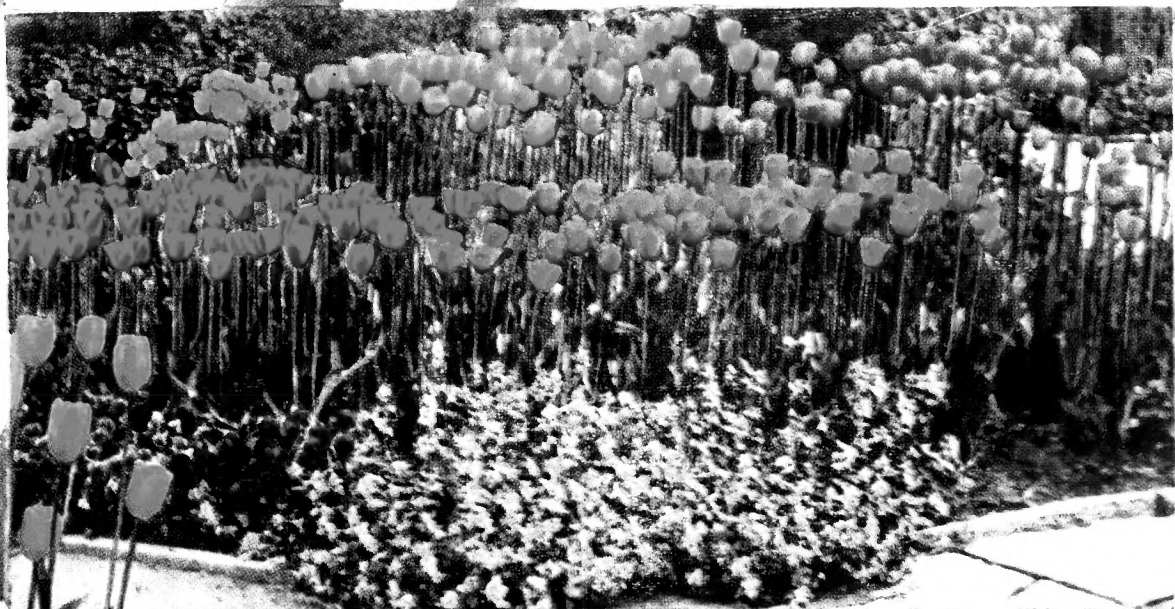

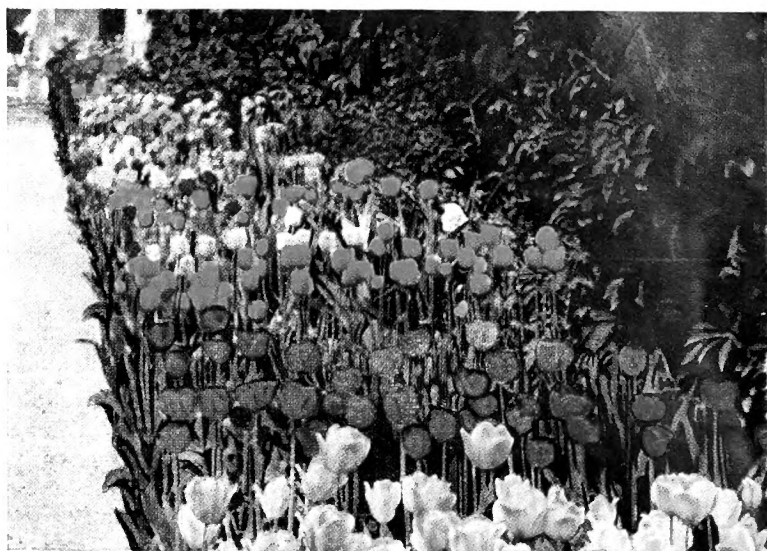

PINETOWN
NORTH CAROLINA

PRIDE OF HAARLEM

PAUL BAUDRY

INGLESCOMBE
YELLOW

CLARA BUTT

AMERICAN-GROWN and IMPORTED BULBS

from TERRA CEIA BULB FARM · H. Van Dorp · Pinetown, North Carolina

BEDDING HYACINTHS

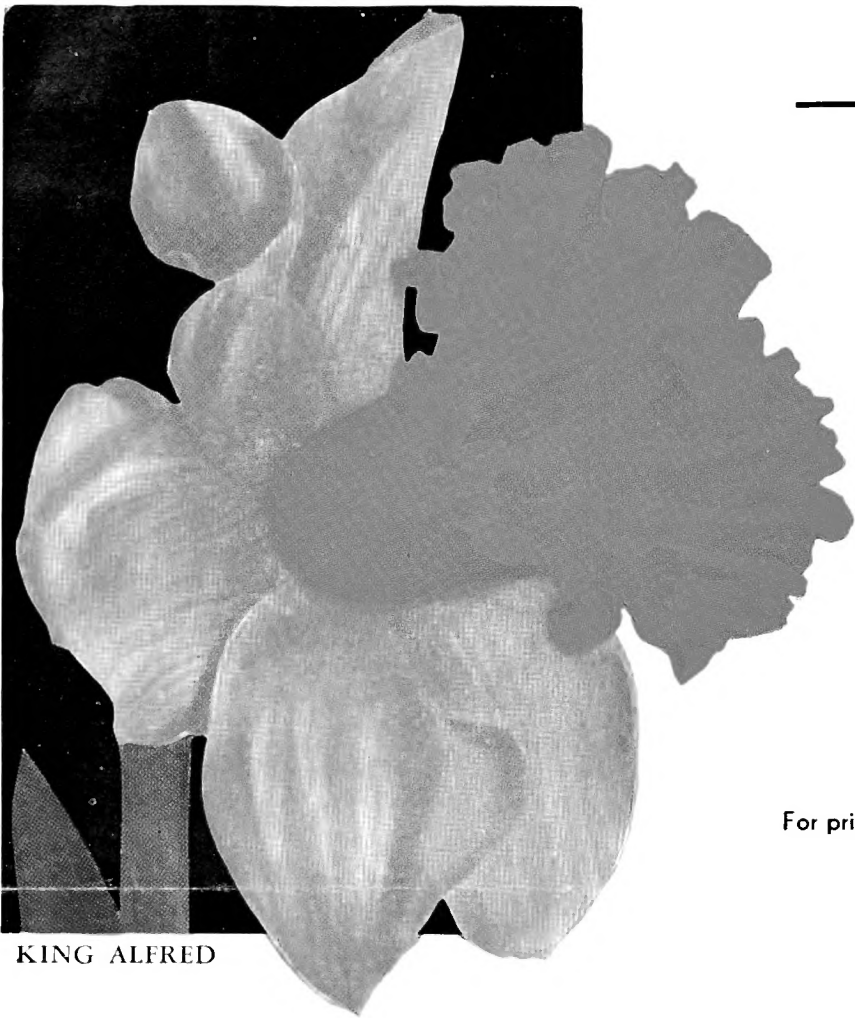

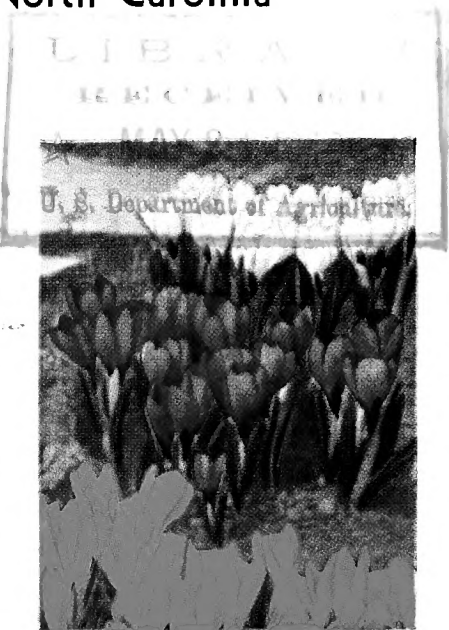

In addition to a wide range of colors varying from rich red to dark purple, Hyacinths are noted for their delightful fragrance. Plant them in broad masses or use them in small groups combined with daffodils.

Set the bulbs 5 to 6 inches deep in rich, well-drained soil.

CROCUSES

The chalice-like blooms of the Crocus family are among the earliest evidences of approaching spring. The dainty, tapering buds expand during the sunny hours each day and close at night, as if to protect themselves from Jack Frost.

Plant Crocuses 4 inches deep, setting the bulbs 2 to 3 inches apart if you wish to have a colorful mass.

KING ALFRED

AMERICAN - GROWN DAFFODILS

The cheery yellow Daffodils are among the very first flowers to bloom in the spring, and no modern garden should be without generous masses of them. Some of the finest varieties are now available at reasonable prices.

Plant them in broad masses in your borders, or naturalize them among shrubs or in a wild garden. You will find it interesting and worth while to plant clumps of six or more among your perennials.

Daffodils should be planted about 6 inches deep. It is not necessary to take up the bulbs every year, but if you would have large flowers, it is advisable to divide them at least every two years. Dig the bulbs after the foliage has turned yellow, and dry them off thoroughly before storing them for the summer months.

Helios	Short trumpet. Very early.
The First	Large trumpet. Early.
Henry Ford	Large trumpet. Early.
King Alfred	Large trumpet. Early.
Sir Watkin	Short trumpet.
Robert Sydenham	Very large. Later.
Engleheart	Very large. Late.

For prices on all items, see enclosed list

DUTCH IRIS

The showy blooms of the Dutch Iris are not as widely cultivated as they deserve to be. They make colorful masses in the garden and are delightful cut-flowers. Their blooming season follows that of the tulips and they can be grown without any special care.

Plant bulbs of Dutch Iris in the early fall, preferably before November. Set the bulbs 3 to 4 inches deep in well-drained soil. Some gardeners reset the bulbs every two years, but it will be found advisable to dig them up each year and dry them thoroughly before storing them for the summer months.

Imperator	Large blue flower.
Yellow Queen	Early. Pure yellow.
Golden Glory	Later. Yellow.
White Excelsior	Pure white.
Van Huchtenburg	Yellow and white.

DUTCH IRIS